MANY SHAKING OFF HYMEN'S YOKE

Judge White presided in Criminal Court yes-erday and passed sentence on several offenders ound guilty during the week. The greatest interest, perhaps, centered in the case of J. H.

Bobbs and Walter Harrington, who plead guilty to enticing May Sullivan, the 15-year-old girl of Scottdale, from the better walks of life.
Attorney Brennen appeared for Bobbs and offered to produce hix witnesses to show the girl to have been immoral before she became acquainted with either of the parties. Judge

White would not hear them, as it did not excuse the defendants, and told Bobbs he could, by the law, send him to the penitentiary for 30 years on the two indictments. He, however, would be lenient in view of his plea of guilt, and he therefore sentenced him to pay a fine of 6 cents, the cost of the prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for five years. Bobbs put his hands to his face and staggered, but

When Harrington stepped forward Judge White told him he did not consider him as

The B. & O. Passenger Agent Will Bring Charges Against the Road

FOR EXCHANGING THEIR TICKETS.

A New Passenger Line to Chicago Via Wheeling and Benwood.

LARGE REVENUES FROM EXCURSIONS

Charles O. Scull, General Passenger Agent of the Baltimore and Ohio road, was in the city yesterday. When he had read an article from New York to the effect that his road had been outdone by the Pennsylvania in the matter of exchanging Knights Templar return tickets at Washington for tickets over other roads, he was somewhat surprised. The facts in the case, as furnished by Mr. Scull, are these: The Trunk Line and Central Traffic associations decided to make the rate 1 cent per mile to the Knight Templar Conclave at Washington. The Trunk lines agreed among themselves that passengers coming from the West could return by way of New York and Philadelphia over other roads, it they preferred, by paying an extra charge. That is to say, the rate from Chicago to Washington over the Baltimore and Ohio or Pennsylvania was $17 50, but the passenger could go to New York and return to the Windy City from the metrop-olis over another road of his own choice. But it was decided that the road that carried the passenger to Washington took him also to New York, and here is where the trouble arose. To save the Western agents some inconvenience in the matter of publishing extra tickets, the Baltimore and Ohio opened a bureau in Washington, collecting the extra fare there, furnishing a ticket and transmitting the other roads their share. The Pennsylvania road fol-lowed suit and also established headquarters. Mr. Scull says he soon discovered that the Pennsy was using the Baltimore and Ohio tickets to New York, and he pro-tested to Commissioner Tuttle. The latter notified General Passenger Agent Wood, of the Pennsylvania, and on Friday the latter telegraphed that he had ordered the practice

BY PAYING $10 MORE

Mr. Soull said vesterday he did not know how many B. & O. tickets the Pennsylvania had gobbled, but he thinks the number is large, while the Pennsylvania says it is

WILL BRING CHARGES.

Mr. Scull states that he will bring charges against the Pennsylvania before Trunk Line Passenger Association, and he has notified the Western roads by circular not to pay the money over to the Pennsylvania. The young passenger agent de-clared emphatically yesterday that the Pennsylvania would not get a penny from any of the tickets that had been thus ex-changed. The B. & O. furnished 1,800 tickets to passengers who went on to New York on the way home.

Concerning local matters Mr. Scull stated that the B. & O. would run a new passenger line to Chicago from Pittsburg, beginning November 10, when the winter chedule goes into effect. Pullman vesti bule sleeping cars will leave the city at ! o'clock in the evening for Chicago by way of Wheeling, and be attached to the Chicago limited on the main stem at Benwood. The train will arrive in Chicago at 10:45 A. M. Dining cars are ruu on this train, so that the passenger can have his breakfast before he arrives in the Windy City. The present running arrangements with the Pittsburg and Western will not be aban-

BIG PASSENGER REVENUES

"The passenger revenues this year were larger than ever known in the history of the road," said Mr. Scull, suddenly changing the subject. "There has been a uniform gain on all the divisions. It was a great excursion year. The heaviest gains were on with the latter leading. On the Pittsburg the revenues are 12 per cent over last year. The Philadelphia division shows a big gain on account of the opening of the line to New

Two Practices That Take Bread Out of Lawyers' Mouths Nowadays.

It has been noted frequently of late by lawyers that they have seldem been so busy as they are this fall, and yet there are few cases in the courts of general public interest. It has been suggested frequently of late that should the practice, generally first instituted hereabouts by the Germans, continue to grow that lawyers will be deprived of much business in future. It consists in taking judgment instead of promissory notes from debtors. It saves lawsuits. The morality of the practice is called in question by some lawyers, who say that no man should give a juigment note, payment of which may distress his wife and children, but those who take these notes care nothing for the moral question involved. Complaint is also made that ex-Aldermen are taking bread out of the mouths of the legal fraternity by engaging in the business of title examination. As they work cheaper than lawyers, there are many purchasers of real estate who will risk the em-

It is said that a change in the original plans of the route between Pittsburg and the lake by the way of the Pittsburg, Chartiers and Youghiogheny and Valley Railroads is completed.

The iron men of Mahoning Valley are anxious to have the route changed so that Fairport can be reached, claiming that in consequence of existing arrangements be-tween the Fairport Dock Company, a Pittsburg concern, and the Pittsburg and West-ern Railroad whereby the former controls the car service of the latter, they are compelled to procure their coal and ore from the dock company at its own terms.

The Fourth Missionary Meeting of the Presbyterian Young Folks of Both Cities. Numerous bands of little folks were assembled at the North Avenue Presbyterian Church yesterday to enjoy the fourth annual missionary meeting of the children's and young people's societies of the various Presbyterian churches of Pittsburg and

The church was very prettily decorated with flowers, and the little tolks with their singing and recitations made the session very interesting. After appropriate opening songs, prayers and responsive readings, the Earnest Workers' Band of the North Church marched up the aisle carrying banners of gilt letters which formed the words "Mission Stars." They took their position preparatory to giving the wel-coming address. One of the little boys welcomed the bands from the other churches in a manner that would do credit to an older person. Band exercises by the Little Builders of the North Church were then listened to, followed by a recitation of the Goheen Band of the Seventh Church. After singing by the bands a very interesting talk by Miss Kumler was listened to. Roll call, the Secretary's report and singing closed the morning session. During the noon intermission the little folk and also the older ones in attendance were served with a tempting lunch in the lecture room, provided and served by the ladies of the

The afternoon programme contained many interesting features. The banner song by the First German Church, of Allegheny, the First German Church, of Allegheny, was especially pretty; also, the recitations by the Hannah Shaw Band, of Glenshaw. The paper on Korea and the other recitations by the Willing Workers' Band, Lawrenceville, were decidedly interesting. The Mission Band, from the Orphan Asylum, sang "The Trumpet Call" very nicely. Following was the recitation and musical dialogue by the band from West Bellevue. Mrs. Phisler, a Southern teacher of the freedmen, made some very interesting remarks; also, Mrs. Tracy, the India missionary, who described in language all could understand the difference between the little tolks in America and India. The meeting, after accepting an invitation by the East Liberty Presbyterian Church to meet with them the last Saturday in 10 ctober of next year, adjourned with singing.

Miss Kate McKnight, the President of the Young People's Branch of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyteries of Pittsburg and Allegheny, presided over the meeting. The singing was lead by the choir of the Bellfield Church.

YOUTHFUL DEPRAVITY INSTANCED. A Female Child of S Years Assaulted by a

Gang of Hoodlums. A case which came up before Alderman McKenna yesterday is an illustration of the terrible depravity of some of the youth of Pittsburg. Emma Mitchell, a pretty child of 8 years, whose home is with her mother, Mrs. Mary Delaney, on Penn avenue, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, was going along the sidewalk on Friday night toward her home, when she was scized by two lads of 15 or 16 years, and dragged into a lumber yard. SWELL RECEPTION

South American Delegates Are Heartily Tired of Feeding.

Judge Ewing Raises a Strong Point Against the Swallow-Tail.

WEARING THAT GARMENT IS OPTIONAL

#IThe Reception Committee to receive the Pan-American delegates met in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon to consider the advisability of having a fulldress reception, and admitting the wives and! daughters of the committee. W. E. Schmertz presided. Among those present were: Judges Ewing, Slagle and Magee, Colonel Bayne, Dr. Allison, Captain Griffin and about 30 other prominent business men. When the object of the meeting had been stated, Judge Ewing inquired what was understood by a full-dress reception. If it meant a swallow-tail coat he wanted to be counted out, as he had not owned one for 25 years. Mr. Schmertz replied that the Prince Albert coat was being worn in New York and he thought there would be no difficulty about that. Captain Batchelor reported that while in Cleveland he had a conference with Wm. E. Cleveland he had a conference with Wm. E. Curlis, who represents the State Department, and the latter told him the delegates were getting tired of banquets, and suggested that when they come to Pittsburg they be given a reception. This plan was then adopted. Judge Ewing then moved that the ladies be invited. Judging from what he had read of the people of South America, he thought the delegates would be very glad to see what kind of women there are in Pittsburg. The matter was not discussed Pittsburg. The matter was not discussed much, the only difficulty being to select the ladies, so that the entire women population would not be there. There is some danger of such a fight as the famous 400 created in New York during the Centennial. It was decided, however, to invite the ladies and run the chances on numbers.

The plan as it now stands is to send a committee of 15 to Steubenville to meet the distinguished representatives, who will arrive on the evening of November 6 at 6:35 o'clock, and give them a dinner when they

AFXIOUS TO SEE THE MILLS.

The delegates particularly desire to visit the various mills and manufactories and to see what Pittsburg is making. Thursday will be spent on the Southside and up the Monongabela river and the reception will be held at the Monongahela House in the evening. On Friday the delegates will be taken up the Allegheny. The exact places to be visited have not yet been decided on. The Supreme Court Justices who are at present in the city will be invited to attend the reception. There will be nearly 200 representative Pittsburg men with their wives; so that the affair will be extensive as well as distinguished. It has been suggested that those who expect to be there, and especially the ladies, who do not speak the Spanish language fluently need not be slarmed, as all but two of the 70 or 80 representatives who are coming from South America can speak English. The matter of appointing sub-committees on introduc-tion and escort has been left with Chairman Schmertz in connection with the chairmen of the various other committees, and those who are appointed on these committees will be notified in a few days. Superintendent Follansbee was instructed to have 500 copies of a circular printed bearing the names of the delegation. The following are the names of those who will be here, including delegates, secretaries, attaches and representatives of the press:

Every day, for the last two or three weeks, the through trains over both systems have been from 10 minutes to one and a half hours late, the invariable answer for the reason being "heavy traffic." In the Connellsville region the condition of affairs is becoming serious. Coke yards are so crowded that there is no more storage room available. It was stated yesterday that there is more coke on the banks at present than there has been in many years, and one operator placed the amount at 100,000 tons. Last week's output is estimated at 130,000 tons, and of this not more than 80,000 tons were shipped, leaving a balance of 50,000 to be added affairs is becoming serious. Coke yards are Furnace men are willing to pay any price for a supply so as to keep going, but operatives cannot assist them, no matter how tempting the offer. The situation is altogether unprecedented, and there are those who say the end is not yet.

Don't drop the paper in alarm; it isn't a fatal disease—not even a painful one. Neither is there any reason why those who are blessed with good optics should cross the street at the approach of a man with an approach of a man with the street at the approach of a man with an eyeglass, as though the latter had the smallpox or yellow fever, or some other contagious complaint. Nevertheless, astigmatism, though neither fatal, painful nor contagious, is a genuine and frequently a grievous affliction. Theater-goers suffer especially from it. The astigmatist, seated ten rows from the stage, finds it difficult to follow the metions of the coryphee as she spins gracefully about on one toe, or to realize the fell design of the heavy villain as, with naked dagger, he creeps stealthily out of the flies to prod the unsuspecting hero in the ribs. For him the acrobatic performance of the Florella brothers has the same general effect as the sword combat in "Richard III." In vain he endeavors to aid his vision by makvain he endeavors to aid his vision by making a double reflector out of his opera glass and spectacles. Neither will serve his purpose of itself, and the combination is worse than useless. He leans back in his seat in disgust and hears with envy the expressions of approval or disapprobation called forth by the play from the spectators with unimpaired vision who surround him.

It seems strange in view of the great improvement in optical instruments that no ocalist has, until within a recent period, experimented with a view to relieving the theater-going astigmatist of his embarassments. It was a Pittsburg astigmatist who first suggested a way out of the difficulty, and two Pittsburg scientists who, as a result of their suggestion, have evolved an invention which will enable those afflicted with astigmatism to use to advantage not vain he endeavors to aid his vision by mak

Counsel for the defondants considered the sentences very severe ones. with astigmatism to use to advantage not only opera glasses but field glasses, telescopes and other optical instruments of a similar nature.

The story of the invention is interesting, but before it is told it might be in order to tate just what astigmatism is Onetion of the peace case in a rather singular manner Mr. Michaels, a tailor, residing in Chartiers, had lodged an information for surety of the peace against his wife and the case was heard yesterday. Mr. Michaels alleged that his wife had a violent temper and had threatened to poison her children and to put poison in the poison her children and to put poison in the well, etc.

Mrs. Michaels in turn accused her lord of not being as good a man as he should be. He did not attend church, and had backslidden, etc. Various other minor faults were alieged. A number of witnesses were called, among them Mr. Al Young, a hotel proprietor of Chartiers, who is a neighbor of the people. He bluntly said that Mrs. Michaels had no more intention of poisoning any one than he had. She was a devil; that is, had a violent temper, but he guessed there were faults on both sides. He had advised Michaels who had been taking his meals at his house, to eat at home and make up with his wife.

Judge White said that if Mr. Young was as truthful as he had been in the License Court he had no doubt that his advice to the pair was the best thing under the circumstance. After giving Mr. and Mrs. Michaels some good advice he said that he would send them both back home to live together. Furthermore, he would commit them to the care of Mr. Young, with instructions to follow his advice. The costs of the case were placed on the husband. The parties left the courtroom apparently on a fair way to reconciliation. state just what astigmatism is. Quoting from the Scientific American, which describes in a lengthy article the invention describes in a lengthy article the invention above referred to, astigmatism is a defect of vision, caused by difference of refraction in the horizontal and vertical meridian of the observer's eye. Persons having this defect of vision see objects distorted in a horizontal or vertical direction, or at some intermediate angle, and have heretofore been unable to use telescopes, opera glasses, microscopes or the class of engineering instruments employing telescopes. The invention placing all these instruments at their command is that of Joseph Kornblum, the well-known Fifth avenue optician. known Fifth avenue optician.

Some two years ago Mr. Park Painter, the wealthy iron manufacturer who has been long afflicted with astigmatism, suggested in a conversation with Mr. Kornblum that fame and fortune awaited the optician who would make an opera glass serviceable who would make an opera glass serviceable to an sitigmatist.

That very day Mr. Kornblum began his experiments toward filling the long-felt want. The scientific basis of the invention was soon arrived at, but for months and months the inventor wrestled unsatisfactorily with the mechanical details. Almost in despair he suddenly bethought himself of the very man to help him out of his dilemma, John A. Brashear, who enjoys a world wide fame as a maker of lenses for astronomical instruments. Brashear proved day, John L. Textore was called up for sent-ence. He was found guilty of opening two letters taken from a mailbag. Colonel Stone addressed Judge Acheson in astronomical instruments. Brashear proved equal to the emergency, and when the invention was perfected by his aid, was rewarded with a third interest in the patent right, Mr. Kornblum yielding another third to Mr. Park Painter, who had originally suggested the idea. the prisoner's behalf, and said there was no money taken from the letters. Senator Greer of Butler, also asked for mercy for the prisoner, which Judge Acheson said he would consider when passing sentence. He also said the rea-son the defendant got no money from the letters was because there was none in them, but the offense was just as bad, as a trust had been violated.

to Mr. Park Painter, who had originally suggested the idea.

The invention is a very simple one. Its great value, in fact, lies in its simplicity, for by the mere adjustment of this eye piece, with which any opera glass or telescopic instrument can be fitted, the astigmatist can see as clearly as though his sight was natural and unimpaired. At the same time the instrument is not injured for general was for West, in his own behalf, said he wanted to get away from home, as his father abused him, and he spent the money in going to San Francisco. There he took sick, and was returning home when arrested. Willis McCook, his attorhome when he has sout to a reform school, the eye piece, or eye pieces, can be removed as easily as it is put in place. In Mr. Kornblum's first model the astigmatic eye piece was fixed to the glass by a hinge or pivot, and can, through slits in the frame of the lenses, be swung in or out of the field of vision by a pressure of the

The original invention has been described at some length in the Scientific American and some of the Eastern newspapers, but a recent improvement, for which Mr. Korn-blum acknowledges his indebtedness to Mr. Ross W. Drum, greatly cheapens and simplifies its application. The im-provement consists in entirely de-taching from the instrument the convicted last week were not sentenced yester-day, as was expected. J. D. Bauder, "Reddy" McCall, James Doyle and John Dougherty have taching from the instrument the astigmatic eye pieces, which can be carried in the vest pocket when not in use. The accurate adjustment of the eye pieces in the frame is secured by measurements which are marked off on the circular frames by which the glasses are inclosed. The invention has caused a sensation among oculists all over the world, and numerous offers have been made for the patent wight. still to be tried on another count, being jointly indicted with Aldermen Maneese, Doughty and Callen.

An odd circumstance of the case is that Doyle, who is awaiting sentence on one count and trial on another, was drawn on the panel of jurors last week to serve for the ensuing two weeks in the Criminal Court. The Judge will probably not allow him to serve. Alderman Maneese, who is also under indictment, was on the jury the past two weeks, but did not serve. have been made for the patent right.
